

FIRE PREVENTION
BUREAU FORMED
BY ASSOCIATION

At the regular meeting on January 30 of the Associated Firemen of San Mateo County it was definitely decided to form a fire prevention bureau in San Mateo county.

The chairman of the advisory board appointed a committee consisting of one member of the advisory board for every city represented in the association.

The purpose of this fire prevention committee is to educate the public in regard to the fire hazard confronted in their homes. Fires in the home are easier to prevent than to extinguish. Especial care should be taken in the home to prevent fires from starting, because when they do start, there is seldom a man about to extinguish them.

Where women and defenseless children are housed, every human consideration demands the utmost vigilance on the part of those responsible for their welfare.

If the suggestions in this article are understood and heeded, many a life may be saved and many a home successfully guard against destruction by fire. When a fire is small you can put it out easily; stamp it out with your feet, smother it with a rug, or douse it with a pail of water. Such action at the start of a fire may be more effective than the work of an entire fire department five minutes later. Fire is not to be trifled with. ALWAYS, unless you immediately put out the fire, you should call the fire department from the nearest fire alarm box.

To prevent fires in the home, the attic, cellar and all closets and out-buildings should be cleaned at least once every year, and all useless material and rubbish removed and burned. These unnecessary accumulations are dangerous, and are the cause of many fires. Store all remaining material neatly so that a clear passage may be had between or around boxes, cases, barrels, etc.

Do not go into closets with lighted matches, or candles. Care should be exercised in burning leaves, dead grass or rubbish. Keep these fires a safe distance from buildings, and never light them on windy days or at night.—Victor Savelly, Daly City Member of the Fire Prevention Committee.

CROCKER CHAPTER HAS MUSICAL NIGHT

That an evening at Crocker Chapter is always a pleasant one was quite generously attested to by those who were present at the first meeting for the month.

The entertainment following the closing of the meeting was interesting in all particulars. Sisters Stella Jensen, Cohn, Justin, Winter and Scheeling earned the gratitude of all by bringing two short playlets, which were thoroughly enjoyed by all. A cornet solo by E. Neiderhaus, accompanied by Miss Marcella Savage, were the musical additions to the program and were well received, after which all adjourned to the banquet room for a midnight supper.

A TRUE GHOST STORY AT CALVARY CHAPEL

Rev. Charles Woessner, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Chapel, 5724 Mission street, announces his services for next Sunday as follows: In the morning, "A Carol of the Heart," in the evening, "A True Ghost Story."

Rev. Woessner declares that "with all of our present day intellectual enlightenment and new learning, man still holds on to many superstitious worshipers. The black cat is still a 'hoodo' to many; walking under a ladder and Friday the 13th are said to be omens of bad luck; and the haunted-house with its weird tales yet remain with us. Seemingly, the natural man, human nature as a whole, does not seem to change much with the passing decades. 'Ghosts' and their 'doings' will probably live throughout the age of man. Sunday night the pastor of Calvary Baptist Chapel will tell one ghost story that was true."

HILLCREST CIRCLE, U. A. O. D.

Hillcrest Circle, U. A. O. D., held a very interesting meeting and drill rehearsal on Monday evening. Captain Blair is much pleased with the manner in which the girls work. Time is short and the members of the team expect to have several more hard work rehearsals. Mrs. Lombard is co-chairman for the February 24 whist at Masonic hall, and many will attend from all over the district, for everyone knows that Hillcrest Circle parties are very enjoyable. Come, and bring a friend with you.

MERCHANTS MAY SELL FIREWORKS

The first regular meeting of the City Council for the month of February was held on Monday evening, February 10, all members answering roll call and Mayor H. H. Smith presiding.

A communication was received from A. N. Lang, secretary of the Board of Fire Commissioners, submitting a recommendation to the City Council to allow merchants of Daly City to sell fireworks, between June 28 and July 4 of this year. The board looked favorably upon the plan and the recommendation was complied with.

A communication was received from the San Mateo Fish and Game Protective Association, stating that since San Francisco has purchased the Spring Valley Water Company properties, the water shed area in San Mateo county will become the property of the City of San Francisco. This is the only large area in San Mateo county where game can live unmolested, and should be made a game preserve, according to the association. Under the plan of protection the area would be posted and the game protected the same as in our national forests. With this communication, the association sent a resolution to this effect, which the board acted favorably on and adopted.

A letter was received from the California Construction Company, asking for an extension of ninety days within which to complete their contract in Jefferson Park, stating that the work has already been completed, but that they would like to have this extension of time so as to get out the assessments and bonds. The extension of time was granted by the Council.

A communication was received from the Plumbers Inspectors' Association, which is composed of plumbing inspectors from various cities, saying that they would like to have the city of Daly City represented in their organization. The purpose of this organization is to establish a higher standard in plumbing science and to render the maximum service to cities which the organization represents. This matter was referred to the plumbing inspector.

A method was figured out to dispose of sewage in the Jefferson Park district, until such time as there would be an outlet completed to the ocean.

Monday evening was also the time for the board to hear any protests on the newly completed street work in the Jefferson Park district. A large delegation from this district was present, not to protest, but merely to ask a few questions as to assessments, etc. Everyone seemed to be thoroughly satisfied with the work, which was pleasing to the board, as work of this kind spells progress for the future prospects of Daly City.

But thirty days remain in which you may register, as registration will close on March 15.

It matters not that you may have been registered in the past, you will have to register again if you desire to vote this year. Registration is being made easier this year than in the past, as registrars are making a house to house canvass, but it may happen that you might be overlooked in some unintentional manner. So it behooves you to make it your business to see that you are registered. You are the interested party, after all.

The following have been appointed as registration deputies, who will register voters in Daly City: Grace L. Augustin, 501 Evergreen avenue; Margaret Fahy, 613 Bellevue avenue; Teresa P. NEW ACTIVITY AT TANFORAN TRACK

Officers of the Pacific Coast Breeders' Association and Joseph A. Murphy, at a series of conferences last week, adopted tentative plans for the various activities contemplated at Tanforan race track. The Tanforan property was purchased recently by the breeders' association and Murphy was brought here in an advisory capacity.

As to the outcome of the conferences, Dr. Charles E. Jones, secretary of the association, said:

"Our association will conduct all of its activities within the statutes of the state. Since the announcement of our purchase of Tanforan we have received hundreds of letters asking if it would be possible to conduct a race meeting within the law. Some of these have come from our most influential merchants.

"We have asked Judge Murphy to submit to us a practical method of racing within the law. This plan will be submitted to some of the most eminent counsel in this city and if their opinions are favorable we may take further steps to strengthen our position.

"We have requested Judge Murphy to outline plans for our live stock and other exhibitions. He will also submit suggestions for the reorganization of the club features, which we hope to establish on permanent lines. The association will honor all the life memberships of the Pacific Coast Jockey Club, the organization from which it purchased Tanforan.

"The matter of finance also has been discussed. As we are organized not for profit, we are going to need an underwriting from some of our friends. Just what form this will take we have not determined. It may be in the nature of a holding company with various corporations organized not for profit to take care of the various features."

CROWDS ATTEND OPENING OF NEW MEAT MARKET

Vogel Bros., who last Saturday opened a market at 6386 Mission street, Daly City, must have been pleased at the reception accorded this new enterprise, as crowds thronged the new place of business all day long.

A member of the firm remarked: "The enormous amount of business done on the opening day at our Market is an indication that the people of Daly City know the value of good meats, fish and poultry. While it was not possible to supply every one in the latter part of the day as we would have wished, because of the large volume of business, we will be prepared to take care of all customers in the future. We wish to take this opportunity to thank our patrons for their co-operation in making the opening such a success."

The dinner, which was served by one of Daly City's restaurants, could not have been improved upon.

Mayor H. H. Smith was called upon and replied with some very appropriate remarks.

Past President Twisten was presented with a past president's gold medal by the Association, being also presented with a beautiful set of book ends by Comrade Bigazzi.

The members were very happy to have several of the Veteran Firemen of San Francisco among their guests, who contributed several numbers to the program by rendering vocal and musical selections and not to be forgotten were several numbers furnished by local members.

The big surprise of the evening was the splendid entertainment supplied by the Daly City Theatre, under the personal direction of Mr. R. C. MacArthur.

BOARD AGREES TO OPEN CROSSING AT AVIATION FIELD

At the meeting of the San Mateo county board of supervisors on Monday the board undertook to open and pave the Bell street crossing of the Southern Pacific tracks in Beresford Park, which will create a direct link between El Camino Real and the $5,000,000 Curtiss-Wright airport. The decision followed a battle among members of the board as to whether the cost should come out of the Second township road fund or the unbudgeted reserve.

The board finally voted to take the cost of the project, totaling $6,030, out of the unbudgeted reserve.

City Manager E. P. Wilsey and Mayor William H. Taylor of San Mateo appeared to ask the county's aid, since it was the board that first started proceedings to open up the Bell street crossing before Beresford was annexed by San Mateo last fall.

City Manager Wilsey explained the railroad commission's permission had been granted for the opening up of the crossing, and that the Southern Pacific company had advised that the total cost of grading, paving, signals, etc., would be $6,030.

The road will be 40 feet wide, and the cost will include paving of the approaches. Paving between the tracks will be taken care of by the railroad company, Wilsey told the board.

Chairman of the Board C. V. Thompson of the Fourth township and Supervisor Thomas L. Hickey of the First township both strenuously objected to the money coming out of the unbudgeted reserve, but agreed that the airport project was "too big to let a $6,000 crossing job stand in the way."

The board adopted a resolution to issue bonds in the sum of $130,000 in the Burlingame elementary school district as a result of the election there January 28. The resolution was introduced by Supervisor Hickey.

The board will call for bids for the school bonds, which will be opened at the meeting on March 3. Proceedings of the special election, which carried 704 to 98, and the order to the board to issue bonds, were introduced by District Attorney Franklin Swart.

Applications were received from George Ford of Daly City, Alfred Podleski of San Mateo, and J. T. Carl of San Mateo for appointment as state traffic officers in San Mateo county.

MANY EDUCATORS JOIN ASSOCIATION

More than half of the teachers of the State of California are members of the National Education Association, according to the current report of the records and membership of that organization. California stood third among the states in 1929 with 20,887 members, an increase of nearly 1,500 over 1928. For five years prior to 1928 California led all states in membership. Last year Ohio won first place by four members. California stood second. This year Pennsylvania nosed California out of second place by 319 members.

While Ohio and Pennsylvania have both passed California in total membership, in the National Education Association, California has enrolled 52 per cent of her teachers, while Ohio and Pennsylvania have only 51 and 33 per cent enrolled respectively.

Los Angeles rates second among the cities of the nation for the largest total National Education Association membership with 5,044. Detroit leads with 5,630. Los Angeles has 113 schools with 100 percent membership, and 59 life members.

The National Education Association enrolled one fourth of all the teachers in the United States in 1929, with a total membership of 205,681, the largest membership the organization has ever had, and a gain for the year of 12,536.

The National Education Association, which has been for some years the largest professional organization in the world, was organized in 1857 for the purpose of promoting the welfare of childhood and the cause of education in the United States. The association enrolls practically all school superintendents in the nation, with a large percentage of principals and supervisors of elementary and secondary schools.

The business of the organization is conducted in Washington, D. C., where a permanent headquarters staff of 125 members is housed in an office building owned by the association. A seven-story annex is soon to be added to the building. The association is engaged in extensive projects of research in education.

The attendance at annual conventions of the association numbers between ten and fifteen thousand. The next annual meeting will be held in Columbus, Ohio, June 28 to July 4. The new "parrot fever" probably originated among those who indulge in parrot talk for and against prohibition.

If all the punk radio programs were suppressed there would be plenty of channels for the other kind.

Our greatest fear concerning the matter is that too much argument about peace may lead to war.

If folks were compelled to practice what they preach there would be noticeably less preaching.

WASHINGTON'S GOOD NAME

It is an elementary principle that in every phase of life there are constructive and destructive forces. One builds, the other destroys, and there is a constant war waged between the two. Destructive forces are rightly regarded as pernicious to human welfare and man ever seeks to eliminate them. Yet they continue to exist, seeming able to always find some weak spot to attack.

Men in public life are frequently choice subjects. No matter how virtuous, honorable or blameless; no matter the heights attained in public opinion, they must guard constantly against the destructive forces—composed as a rule of those who rejoice in relating creations of the imagination as facts, who delight in whispering scandal, who are quick to twist the truth. Even the dead are not safe. When they are no longer here to defend themselves, the reputation they have made is attacked.

As an example take George Washington, who devoted his life to laying the foundation upon which today stands the world's foremost nation, and whose birth anniversary will be celebrated this month. One can hear constantly repeated stories that are directed against the morals and character of this great American. In these stories, the intent of which is, apparently, to destroy the ideals that surround the memory of the beloved patriot, small incidents are magnified and made to appear in a different light, and often they have not the slightest basis of truth.

To combat the insidious results which may be caused by the efforts of the destructive forces in this respect and to keep unsullied the memory of that great man, the Washington Society of Alexandria, Va., has traced the origin of many of these whispered stories and has published facts to prove to the most credulous that these scandals are utterly false.

This society was first organized on January 14, 1800, by Washington's most intimate friends just one month after his death, and dedicated to the perpetuation of the name and fame of Washington. It existed for almost fifty years, numbering among its members men of the highest intellectual and moral standing of the Nation.

The records of this society having been discovered, it was felt that it should be revived, and accordingly on January 14, 1928, the reorganization was effected at Gadsby's Tavern where the original society had been formed one hundred and twenty-eight years before. It has as its purpose the giving of public and permanent expression of devotion to the man and the principles of virtue of which he was the exponent. It also aims to assist in the preservation of historical places in Fairfax county which were associated with Washington, and to disseminate historical information regarding events contemporaneous with our first President.

Its membership is composed of loyal American citizens who are ever ready to defend the good name and cherish the memory of that illustrious man, George Washington. H.

BOULEVARD AND ARTERIAL STOPS

"More than 2,000 lives were lost on the streets and highways of California last year," states D. W. Pontius, member of the executive committee of the Safety Conference of California State Chamber of Commerce. "Non-observance of the arterial and boulevard stop signs was one of the principal causes of this heavy death toll. Approximately 80 per cent of the drivers do observe these stops, but we must educate the minority to strict observance of the signs in order to protect our own lives."

Through the co-operation of the State Motor Vehicle Department, the police departments, and women's organizations of California, every effort will be made by the Safety Conference of the State Chamber during this month to bring about a general observance of boulevard and Arterial stops. This campaign, it is announced, is part of the yearly educational program of the Safety Conference, to check the rising toll of deaths and injuries on the streets and highways of our state.

"Every individual driver is necessarily interested in this problem of safety," continues Mr. Pontius. "He should not only lend his assistance by observing this regulation himself, but he should help to educate the violators also."

PUBLIC SCHOOL DEFINED BY SENATOR HEFLIN

"The public school is the city of refuge for the children of rich and poor alike. It is the source from which knowledge flows through all the channels of our state and national existence. It is the promise and prophecy of our future, the saving grace and mainstay of things dear to the life of the Republic," stated Senator J. Thomas Hefflin, of Alabama, before the Senate recently.

"In the democracy of the public-school room," the Senator continued, "noble principles and high ideals are born, and from it comes the breath of life of our free institutions. It is the citadel and the stronghold of liberty. Destroy the public school and you strike a deadly blow to free government in America."

The Crippled Lady of Peribonka

—By—
James Oliver Curwood

WNU Service
(©, 1929, Doubleday Doran & Co., Inc.)

STORY FROM THE START

Introducing some of the people of the pretty little French-Canadian village of Peribonka, particularly the Crippled Lady, idol of the simple inhabitants. Paul Kirke is a descendant of a sister of Molly Brant, sister of Joseph Brant, great Indian chief. He has inherited many Indian characteristics. His father is a powerful New York financier.

He nodded to Paul, dropped off his rubber coat, and began to fill his pipe as he looked out over the workings.

"I wish all the boys in the world could stand in this window and see what's going on down there," he said. "That idea gets into my head every time I come here. It would fill 'em with ambition, show 'em what can be done, give 'em something to live and work for. Rotten day, isn't it?"

"Rotten," agreed Paul.

"But for a man who's done that—It ought to be sunshine all the time," added Derwent, lighting his pipe and puffing at it with great contentment. "Splendid work, Paul. Something to be proud of all your life. Something—"

"I hate it," interrupted Paul. "I've hated it from the beginning. I've hated it for three years."

Derwent nodded. "I know it."

Paul turned from the window with a fiercely eloquent gesture. At thirty-eight his lean, lithe figure was more like an Indian's than when he was a boy. There was something in the cut of his chin, his neck, his shoulders, and the look in his eyes which seemed to set him widely apart from the scene he had moodily surveyed a moment before. Shadows were hidden behind them, restless and troubled shadows, which revealed themselves only now and then like ghosts whose grief could not always be kept behind walls of flesh. His eyes were a deeper blue than when his mother had known him, and they held a chained something which was forever struggling against the powerful will of the man. Occasionally the prisoner was released, and when this happened there was a singular, far-seeing, almost poetic beauty in them, and the steel went out of his flesh, so that he seemed all at once to come under the passing warmth of an influence other than that which had become so deep in his life.

Derwent's analytical mind had arrived at the truth of the matter a long time ago. He nodded again and repeated: "I know you don't like it. But it's a great work, just the same."

Paul looked at him with a grim smile, and Derwent surrounded him self with a cloud of smoke.

"Do you think I am quite a fool, Colin? Do you really believe I could be on a job of this kind for three years without getting a pretty accurate measurement of myself? The fraud of it all makes me sick! The flattery of my friends—everybody treating me as if I were an omnisciently powerful godhead of some kind! I tell you it's all a lie, and I hate it. I'm glad I didn't build that outrage down there. I'm glad there isn't a mark of my hand upon it. Good God—! I would die by inches rather than destroy a beautiful river for a thing like that—desecrate a masterpiece for a few dollars' profit, prostitute a gift which God put there when the world was made, that a few worms like you and me may turn it to our selfish ends. If there is a Power that mounts the storm and walks upon the wind it ought to strike us dead for transforming a paradise into that!"

Weeks and months and years of gnawing torment had at last broken through the dam Paul had built up about his emotions, and he spoke words which yesterday he would have throttled in his breast.

"Fifty million dollars in and about that hole before it is finished, Derwent," he said. "My father's money. That is why I am here. A score of engineers are on this job, and every one of them is better fitted to fill my place than I. They have done the work, not I. Respectfully they submit suggestions when they know they are slaves to my whims and desires as long as they remain on this work. I am the strutting figurehead of a financial monarchy. I hate that pit down there. I hate the millions going into it. I take no pride in what seems to thrill you all. If I filled my proper place I would be among the men digging and messing myself with clay, earning my six dollars a day. But I'm here instead. I do not have to succeed simply because I cannot fail. My father's millions attend to that. The millions cannot lose. They are all-powerful next to the Lord Jehovah. They get you and hold you, and you cannot break away. My father has never got away from them for a day's play in his life. And they've got me. I hate them, but that doesn't help. No matter where I go they follow me, haunt me, tie me hand and foot, grime at me, and mock me. Sometimes I have had a terrible thought. I would like to see those millions shrivel up and die. I would like to feel the necessities of life with my naked hands. I would like to feel the joy of knowing that I had to work or go hungry. What a thrill that must give one!"

He turned toward Derwent again, trying to stem the tide of his emotion with a smile.

"Pardon me. It's a gloomy day and I feel like raving. But I did love that glorious river before we cut it into ribbons. If my father would head his millions instead of destroying them, I'd be quite happy. As it is, I suppose I must carry on until the d-d thing's finished."

"You owe yourself an apology," Derwent remonstrated, pocketing his pipe. "The engineers and your father's money are making the job a success, of course. But do you ever think of morale? That's a big thing, a mighty big thing. And it is what you have kept alive in the camps up and down the river for the last three years. You're too serious, you don't laugh enough, you don't join much in our parties and excitements, but people like you. That is what pulls the trick. Even the old heads, the engineers who worked in Egypt and Panama, love to be with you. There isn't a jealous man in the workings. To have made that condition possible is an achievement which makes you the most valuable human asset in the organization."

"It is good of you to say that," acknowledged Paul. "Funny why I should feel so strangely out of humor today. I think Carla's mother is getting on my nerves. Have you seen her recently?"

"This morning."

"And you still insist there is no hope?"

"Positively. I had Doctor Thied mere come up from Quebec, as you requested. He gives her even less time than I. Doctor Rollins agrees with him. It can't be more than three or four months, I think. Mrs. Haldan knows she is going to die and talks to us very calmly about it. She isn't afraid. The thought of it doesn't seem to cast a shadow over her motherly sweetness. She is keeping herself that way for Carla's sake. If it were not for Carla the thing wouldn't be such a tragedy."

"I know. It's Carla," said Paul. "Sudden sickness and death, like my own mother's isn't so terrible. But seeing it coming, waiting for it, counting the days and weeks—must be horrible. Carla is losing everything she has when her mother goes. I'm wondering what she will do."

"Go on working among the children. She told my wife that yesterday. When the company's school closes here she will find another. I cannot understand her—quite. She is lovelier than Hebe, and so lovable that half the men I know worship her. Yet she favors one no more than another. She is twenty-five, Lucy-Belle says. They like each other and have had their confidences. Lucy-Belle says there is a love affair in Carla's life, a broken one, which makes it impossible for Carla to love any other man or marry. Carla told her that."

Paul looked out of the window again, with his back to Derwent.

"What a rotter I am to blow up as I did a few minutes ago," he exclaimed. "But I was thinking of Carla and the obstinacy of life. Mine has been one way, Carla's another. I was born rich; she came over an immigrant baby. I did nothing but grow up; she fought with the pertinacity of her race for an education after her father died, got it, and has been fighting for her own and her mother's existence ever since. I'm a man. She's a woman. I stand here and sympathize with myself and curse my luck for being what I am while she bears up like a soldier under her burdens. I saw her this morning. It was wet, soggy, gloomy, but she smiled. The sadness of all the world is back of that smile, but it doesn't spoil its sweetness or its cheer. She makes me feel how small I am and how inconsequential all this work is down here—if I were mine to give—could I save her mother for her!"

Derwent put on his raincoat.

"We all feel that way about it. And—we're helpless. Lucy-Belle wants you to come over to supper. Will you?"

"Thanks. Tell Lucy-Belle she is an angel to think of me so often. I'll come."

Took Pessimistic View of Wire Communication

A number of prominent men of Professor Morse's period were dubious about the practicability of the telegraph and believed it to have very restricted limits. In view of the development of this form of communication and its present high efficiency it is interesting to note some of these early comments. J. Fennimore Cooper, author of the famous Leather-stocking Tales, wrote to Morse on January 31, 1838, as follows: "My dear friend: I wish you all success with the telegraph, which might be made very useful for long distances. Your difficulty will be in communicating between more than two stations, for half a dozen sparks traveling on the same wire will play the devil with the registers." The Western Union today sends as many as eight messages over one wire at the same time by ingenious automatic devices.

Poise and Purpose

We invariably find that the man of poise is a man with a purpose.—American Magazine.

THE DIFFERENCE

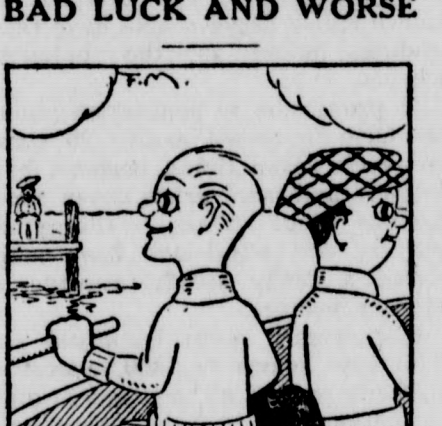

"What's the trouble?" asked Jones, when one of his most popular jokes failed to score a chuckle.

"Let me see," said the solemn one, thoughtfully. "I've got to buy some flowers, some chocolates, and the theater tickets, and—"

"Doing mental arithmetic?" asked his friend.

"Sentimental arithmetic," sighed the young man sadly.

BAD LUCK AND WORSE

George—"You heard of Jim's rotten luck? He was nearly drowned, but a girl rescued him." Harry—"Yes; but he had even worse luck later—she married him."

Stay Down

"Up like rockets, down like sticks," the timid fellows bawl. They get themselves in such a fix they never rise at all.

Real Worry

Blinks—It says here some scientist predicts a 'group of stars headed toward the earth at the rate of 200 miles a second will crash into it in about a million years.

Jinks—That doesn't worry me. We scare me stiff seeing a motor car headed toward me at the rate of 10 miles an hour that will arrive in about one second.—(Cincinnati Enquirer.

Wanted Him Personally

"You are wanted on the telephone, sir," said the office boy.

"Who is it?" asked the manager.

"Your wife, sir."

"What does she want?"

"I don't know. I only heard the word 'idiot.'"

"Come away. Don't you realize she wants to speak to me personally?"

Football Stuff

They used to play football together. One is now a railroad president and the other tackled him for free transportation.

"I used rush tactics," he told a friend later.

"Did they work?"

"I dunno. I may get it. It's a delayed pass."

A GOOD REASON, TOO

"How did you come to miss your train?"

"Why the darned thing was on time this morning."

The Ostrich

The ostrich may be queer as sin, but do not notice that; for he has put a feather in his tail many a lady's hat.

Rule Doesn't Apply Here

Visitor—In China friendship is cemented by the breaking of a piece of china.

Mistress of House (hearing crash)—I think that if we lived in China we should have to regard our maid as a special friend.

Stern Reproof

Lady of the House—I've called you in about a damp patch in the kitchen.

Plumber—Ere! Steady, lady! Strong language never 'elped!

Promptly Settled

"Now, Albert," said the teacher, "if you had four apples, and your little sister asked for half of them, how many would you have left?"

"Four," responded Albert, without a moment's hesitation.

Lots of Worries

Tonks—It's not the cost of the car that worries the average motorist. It's the upkeep.

Banks—And sometimes the turn-over.

Twelve Years Mayor and Going Strong!

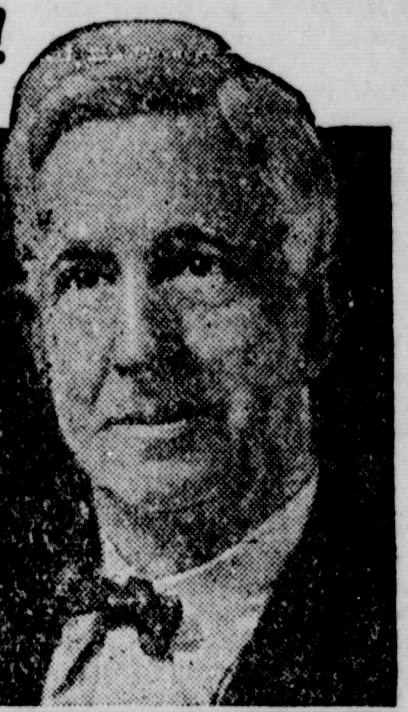

WHEN a man who has been mayor of a big city for twelve years finds out how to live, his words are worth listening to. Ex-Mayor E. N. Kirby of Abilene, Texas, discovered the simple way to health about ten years ago (he is now 64.)

"I am now a new man, and as active as a boy," says Mr. Kirby. "I feel fine all the time and rarely have an ache or a pain, although for twenty-five years I suffered with rheumatism, and sometimes was unable to stand or walk. I would not give up my simple health discovery—no, not for five thousand dollars in gold!" That discovery was Nujol!

That's the wonderful thing about Nujol. Although it is not a medicine and contains absolutely no drugs, its harmless internal lubrication seems to make people feel better and look on the brighter side of life, whether they are old or young.

Of course you can understand why this is so: we all of us have natural poisons in our bodies that make us feel headachy, sick and low in our minds. Nujol, which is as tasteless and colorless as pure water, helps to absorb these and carry them away, easily, regularly as clock work.

Instead of drugging and irritating your body with pills, cathartics, laxatives, and other habit-forming drugs, give your body the internal lubrication which it needs, just as much as any other machine. After a few days you will be surprised at the difference in the way you feel. You can get Nujol in a sealed package in any drug store. Nujol may change your whole outlook on life. Get a bottle today and give yourself a chance to be well!

Hon. E. N. Kirby, for twelve years Mayor of Abilene, Texas, who has discovered secret of success.

Needless Pain!

The man who wouldn't drive his motorcar half a mile when it's out of order, will often drive his brain all day with a head that's throbbing.

Such punishment isn't very good for one's nerves! It's unwise, and it's unnecessary. A tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin will relieve a headache every time. So, remember this accepted antidote for pain, and spare yourself a lot of needless suffering. Read the proven directions and you'll discover many valuable uses for these tablets. For headaches; to check colds. To ease a sore throat and reduce the infection. For relieving neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatic pain.

People used to wonder if Bayer Aspirin was harmful. The doctors

When BABIES are upset

Baby ill and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea—a condition it is always important to check quickly. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready? There is nothing that can take the place of this harmless but effective remedy for children; nothing that acts quite the same, or has quite the same comforting effect on them.

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria; the genuine bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.

Mothers find it magic for scuffs

One touch of the dauber and scuffs disappear. Smooth, uniform color comes back to faded shoes. More than 50 marvelous shades—50 cents. Colors for black, brown, tan and white shoes—a neutral polish for others.

LINCOLN'S EARLY LIFE

As time goes by the name of Abraham Lincoln shines ever brighter on history's scroll. That name is perpetuated in the great Lincoln Memorial in Washington, the most massive and beautiful structure yet erected to any American. But it is in the hearts of his countrymen that his greatness is most imperishably recorded.

Born in a Kentucky log cabin 121 years ago on February 12, Lincoln's boyhood was most unpromising. His father could hardly write his name. Abraham's own schooling did not amount to a full year. He wielded an axe in clearing the forest from the age of eight; his mother died when he was nine. In his tenth year he was kicked by a horse and for a time was thought to have been killed.

At the age of 22 Lincoln was employed at $12 a month; at 23 he served a short time as captain of a volunteer company in the Black Hawk Indian War, and upon returning ran for the legislature but was defeated. Then he and a partner bought a second hand stock of goods on credit and failed. He then was without money or occupation until he got work assisting the county surveyor, which, as he said, "procured bread and kept soul and body together."

About this time he studied English grammar unaided, and in 1834, when he was 25, he again ran for the legislature and was elected. Then he studied law entirely without assistance and was licensed to practice two years later.

Lincoln recognized his need of education and diligently devoted his spare time to acquiring it. He studied and mastered six books of Euclid after he had been elected to Congress. He lost no opportunity for self-improvement.

Thus in spite of early handicaps, he prepared himself for his great destiny.

Correct this sentence: "I have no trouble in dealing with women, because I understand them."

No inventor will produce a machine that will earn your salary for you.

Trustworthiness is essential to true success.

HOW OCCUPATIONS CHANGE

Seventy years is not a relatively long time in the life of a nation such as ours, yet so rapidly have industrial conditions changed that within the period since 1860 the occupations of the people of the United States have been radically altered.

Many trades which formerly provided employment for large numbers have almost disappeared, while others, unheard of seventy years ago, have grown to vast proportions, as shown by census reports recently reviewed.

Occupations which have shown a marked reduction in the number of persons employed in proportion to population include those of shopwood workers, marble and stone cutters, wheelwrights, coopers and blacksmiths. The village blacksmith, formerly an important adjunct of community life, has almost vanished from many sections.

A tremendous increase is shown in the proportion of machinists, while electricians, automobile mechanics and chauffeurs, airplane artificers and moving picture operatives, all unknown a few decades ago, have taken leading places in the industrial scheme.

In proportion to population plumbers have increased nearly 25 times, architects seven times, barbers, hairdressers and manicurists seven times, dentists four times. Clergymen, lawyers and physicians have maintained a fairly steady average, as have carpenters.

Few women were employed outside their homes in 1860, except as teachers, so that all engaged in other occupations at present practically represent a net gain.

What of the future? Will new inventions again revolutionize industry and employment as the automobile, radio, typewriter, moving pictures, electrical appliances and other epoch-making inventions have done?

The question is interesting, and we must wait for the answer, but a safe guess would probably be an affirmative one.

WHY MAKE IT WORSE?

In spite of all that we may possess of knowledge, philosophy and religion when viewed in its stern reality, life is a tragic thing. We may be profoundly thankful for the fact that "hope springs eternal in the human breast."

Man, like every living creature, is born under the sentence of death, which rests alike upon the king on his throne and the murderer in his cell. None is exempt.

That we can cheerfully and hopefully "carry on" in the face of this certainty and in the midst of the trials of our daily existence is convincing evidence of man's courage and fortitude.

These reflections are not intended to spread gloom or discouragement, but are merely a reminder that, taken at its best, there is enough of anguish in the world without anyone seeking to make the burden of another harder to bear.

Along the thorny paths of life each can do much to aid, comfort and encourage his neighbor. Why, then, should we choose to do those things which needlessly bring added misery to others instead of joy?

UNFIT PARENTS

Parents who do not take some interest in the education of their children beyond merely sending them to school fall far short of the duty they owe to their offspring and to society.

The progress of the child in his school work should be carefully watched and aided by admonition or approval as circumstances require. Too many parents place the entire responsibility upon the teacher and fail to see that the necessary home work is punctually performed.

Monthly grades should be given diligent attention and steps taken to spur the child to greater efforts in connection with subjects in which he appears to be backward. Consultation with the teacher should be had when poor grades become too common. Sometimes a physical defect is responsible; then the attention of a physician is required.

Parents who are too indifferent to give some consideration to these things are unfit to be parents. And there are many such.

ODD CAUSES OF DEATH

While death is not usually an amusing subject, the passing of certain citizens of Alabama has been attributed to somewhat amusing circumstances, according to a recent report of the health department at Montgomery.

As certified by local authorities of various counties, these were among the causes of death, according to the official record:

Nervousness from gun shot.
Auto accident, complicated with hookworm.
Fractured skull; contributory, mule.

Auto wreck started it, pneumonia ended it.
Stab wound in chest, inflicted by lady friend.
Hit over head with slop jar.
Leakage of head.
Frightened to death by deputy sheriff.

The show staged by the Senate, too, is practically "all talking."

AMERICAN "EQUALITY"

Rules of precedence are doubtless necessary in connection with official social functions in Washington in order to avoid confusion in placing the various dignitaries present. But the hair-splitting which attends the practical application of such rules is to say the least amusing.

The turmoil which has attended efforts to determine the social status of Mrs. Gann, half-sister and official hostess of Vice-President Curtis, is an illustration of how ridiculous people can make themselves upon slight provocation. The confusion which has arisen from this situation still exists, with little prospect of being allayed.

But the question of where Mrs. Gann should sit at official dinners is not the only perplexing problem which exists in Washington social circles. In many instances various officials may not attend the same dinner with other individuals or groups, because it has never been decided which is entitled to precedence at the table. This has been explained in a recent book dealing with such matters, which advises:

"Do not ask the chief justice and an ambassador to the same dinner, because there is some dispute as to which outranks the other." And for the same reason, "do not ask justices of the Supreme Court and the ministers of a foreign country to the same dinner," and "do not ask the speaker of the House and the president pro tem of the Senate to the same dinner."

All of which illustrates the delightful spirit of American "equality" which pervades Washington social life in high circles.

NEW STYLES IN WIVES

"Styles in wives are changing!" This somewhat startling announcement is made by the household research bureau maintained by the makers of Spinner washers in Peoria, Ill., which declares that the successful housewife of ten or twelve years ago would be a failure if she were transferred unchanged into the typical American home of today.

This is explained by Silas H. Altorfer, president of the concern, who points out that the modern housewife is an executive or manager, instead of a drudge as formerly, owing to the introduction of labor-saving devices into the home.

By means of these devices much of the back-breaking labor which was once an inseparable accompaniment of housekeeping has been eliminated, not only in the cities and towns, but in rural homes as well, where electricity is available.

One of the finest achievements of applied science is seen in the noble part it is playing in the emancipation of womanhood from the gruelling toil of the past.

Modern home equipment contributes to the comfort and happiness of the "new-style wife," besides preserving her health and beauty to a marked degree, and enhances the joys of home life for the entire family.

SIDELIGHTS

Three Brooklyn stick-up men got the surprise of their lives when they tried to rob Miss Anna Cohen, age 21, weight 115. All three fled when she shot a right to the jaw of one, nearly bit the finger off another and kicked the third in the stomach. A medal for Miss Cohen would be worthily bestowed.

The idea that everything comes to him who waits did not work out for J. A. Mostyn, a Washington prohibition agent. Finding some whisky in rear of an undertaking establishment, he hid in a coffin for 11 hours awaiting the owner who failed to show up. Mostyn was weak and nervous after his vigil.

A Californian found a new use for his radio according to his wife's complaint. She declared that when he wanted to beat her he turned on the loud speaker so neighbors couldn't hear her screams. A judge was sympathetic and gave her a divorce.

About the poorest alibi of the season was that of Bourh Tovi, Greek smuggler, arrested at Dover, Eng., upon his arrival from France. When he was found to be wearing 27 silk slips as underwear he pleaded that he did so because of the cold.

Policemen sometimes encounter queer situations. Three of them recently had the task of inducing an escaped lunatic to descend from a perch on a girder of a New York bridge, 100 feet above the water. Coaxing and threats did not avail, but finally the crazy man asked to be taken to Lenox avenue. The policemen promised to take him there but when he came down they returned him to the asylum instead.

A bird in the hand, etc., is the motto of J. H. Banton, retired district attorney of New York. He was entitled upon retirement to an annual pension of $2,400 or a cash lump sum of $13,000 in full settlement of the city's obligation. He chose to take the $13,000.

Twelve years in prison is a stiff price to pay for six months of freedom, as Joe Caprico, formerly of Rochester, N. Y., will no doubt agree.

He escaped from Auburn prison during the riot last July and has just been captured and given a 12-year extension of his former sentence of 20 years for robbery.

One claim of distinction made by Rev. C. C. Grimes, of Knoxville, Tenn., is that he is the only Methodist minister who is not fond of chicken. He said from the pulpit: "I don't like chicken, Sinclair Lewis, potato salad or Henry L. Mencken."

Ted Howard, of Cordova, Alaska, appears to have a poor opinion of an unknown neighbor is evidenced by the following notice in the Daily Times: "I want the skunk-faced, fulminating, decaying-souled, ingratiating, gall-infected, villipendent, gleeking, sibilicious, odious, carping, jaundice-eyed, spawning salmon-bellied caval who swamped my boat to come and see me if he is man enough."

Forward passes on a sharp highway curve are also frequently incomplete.

BELOVED PASTOR ENDS HIS LABORS

The Rev. Thomas Holohan, for almost a quarter of a century a priest in the archdiocese of San Francisco, died suddenly Wednesday of last week in Niles, California, at the age of 48. A solemn requiem mass for the repose of his soul was celebrated last Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock at St. Peter's church, Twenty-fourth and Alabama streets, San Francisco.

Father Holohan was first assigned to a pastorate in June, 1918, when he was sent to Morgan Hill. In 1921 he was made pastor of Holy Angels' church, Colma, where he served until called to build St. Kevins. When his arduous labors in building St. Kevins began to tell on his health, he was allowed a leave of absence to return for a visit to his native Ireland. On his return last year he was appointed pastor of Corpus Christi church, at Niles.

Before his appointment as a pastor, Father Holohan had served as an assistant at Star of the Sea church in San Francisco, where he was appointed when he came to the archdiocese in 1906; at St. Joseph's, Berkeley, St. Patrick's, Oakland, and St. Anthony's, Oakland.

Born in Tullaro, Kilkenny, Father Holohan was educated for the priesthood at St. Kieran's College. He was ordained in 1906 and was to have returned to Ireland next year to celebrate his silver jubilee in the priesthood.

He leaves two brothers, both in Ireland, and two sisters, Mrs. William L. Rafael, of Los Angeles, and a Sister of Mercy in Ireland. Another sister, also of the Mercy order, is now dead.

Father Holohan leaves many friends in Colma who deeply mourn his loss.

Mrs. Edward M. Douglas, now vice-principal of a New York public school, is the Virginia Hanlon whose letter to the Sun in 1897 inspired Church's famous editorial "Is There a Santa Claus?"

Miss Gene Durand of St. Petersburg, Fla., has made 740 leaps from the wings of an airplane, the highest from 18,700 feet and the lowest from 150 feet, both being records for women parachute jumpers.

Miss Martha Schmidt, aged 18, is the first woman to be awarded the Prussian state life saving medal, having saved a boy from drowning at the risk of her life.

Mrs. Mollie Newberry, owner of a Chicago store, carries life insurance policies amounting to $3,000,000, being probably the most heavily insured woman.

Miss Genevieve Irene Roe, soprano, of Wooster, Ohio, won first place for women in the finals of the Atwater Kent radio audition, which carries awards of $5,000 in cash, a gold medal and two years' tuition in music. She is 21.

Miss Florence Henrie, of Chicago, and Miss Lillian Bernard, of Kansas City, singers, have returned to America after a European concert tour, during which they appeared before King George of England.

Mrs. Cornelius Weatherford, of Omaha, aged 98, has a pipe which she has smoked for more than half a century.

Miss Miranda F. Adams, who is thought to be America's oldest school teacher, is teaching for the sixty-seventh year in the public schools of Portland, Maine.

Princess Marie Jose of Belgium became the bride of Crown Prince Humbert of Italy, and prospective future queen of that country, on January 8.

Mrs. Hiram Cronk took an airplane ride over her home town of Douglas, Kansas, on her 100th birthday, accompanied by her "girl friend," Mrs. Imogene Anthony, who is 85.

Miss Hazel Heinrich of the University of Miami, Fla., explores the sea bottom in a diving suit for specimens for use in the study of marine biology.

By J. H. NEUSTADT

Fish and game conservation is now considered such a vital question that every state has its commission and many of the large corporations not only subscribe money, but maintain an active personal interest as well.

Notably the powerful E. I. DuPont de Nemours Corporation of Wilmington, Delaware, published semi-monthly ten pages of game conservation news, and it is a pleasure to note that our county has not escaped attention.

It is gratifying to see that the fish and game notes appearing in this column have attracted sufficient attention to justify the inclusion of the San Mateo Times in the publication file of this corporation, and also on the clipping list of the American Game Protective Association.

Game violators will soon lose the excuse of ignorance of the laws, because publications everywhere are lending their efforts toward education on this subject, and justices who heretofore considered game violations as conventional crimes are now inflicting heavy penalties for all infractions.

The writer considers education as a preliminary to force, and this induces him to relate a suggestion made at the last meeting of the San Mateo County Fish and Game Protective Association to the effect that every true sportsman be not satisfied to make his kill of game, but turn his gun against predatory animals and predatory birds, no bag to be considered complete until game destroyers be included in the bag.

The law permits any citizen to make an arrest when witnessing an infraction, and turning the culprit over to any officer of the law, if a warden be absent.

Violation of the game laws is as much an offence against the state as the breaking of other laws on the statutes.

Particularly impressive is the statement of Governor Carlton, of Florida, who says, "You are directed to enforce these laws without reservation. We have but one law and that is for everybody alike. The game and wild life of Florida must be preserved, and you can depend on the fullest co-operation from this office in the discharge of your duty."

"Senatorial courtesy" is another old idea that has been debunked.

RECIPE TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy.

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary. Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and 1/4 oz. of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Anyway, that royal wedding has served to remind the world that Italy still has a royal family.

IT isn't the pipe that causes these embarrassing moments, Mr. Puff. It's the tobacco. Isn't it time you discovered Sir Walter Raleigh—patron saint of pipe smokers, who discovered how good a pipe can be? His favorite smoking mixture really is milder. It really is just about the richest, mellowest, mildest blend of choice Burleys you've ever smoked.

Neal's Mother Has Right Idea

Within a few months there will be no more feverish, bilious, headachy, constipated, pale and puny children. That prophecy would surely come true if every mother could see for herself how quickly, easily, and harmlessly the bowels of babies and children are cleansed, regulated, given tone and strength by a product which has proved its merit and reliability to do what is claimed for it to millions of mothers in over fifty years of steadily increasing use.

As mothers find out from using it how children respond to the gentle influence of California Fig Syrup by growing stronger, sturdier and more active daily they simply have to tell other mothers about it. That's one of the reasons for its overwhelming sales of over four million bottles a year.

A Western mother, Mrs. Neal M. Todd, 1701 West 27th St., Oklahoma City, Okla., says: "When my son, Neal, was three years old he began having constipation. I decided to give him California Fig Syrup and in a few days he was all right and looked fine again. This pleased me so much that I have used Fig Syrup ever since for all his colds or little upset spells. It always stops his trouble quick, strengthens him, makes him eat."

Always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name and see that the carton bears the word "California." Then you'll get the genuine.

More than four miles of street paving are on the Palo Alto improvement program for the present year, the Board of Public Works reported.

Negotiations have been completed by the Union Ice Company for a site in Reseda on which will be erected a plant to take care of the company's growing business in that territory. It is understood the work of building the plant will begin at once.

Thirty-one thousand California realtors who have delayed applying for their 1930 licenses must take examinations before April 30, or face the alternative of standing a revised and much harder examination or loss of their right to do business, according to Stephen Barnson, real estate commissioner, at Los Angeles.

Collecting 432,301 in the first installment, Tax Collector A. H. Shepard reported only 280 Napa County property owners delinquent. Persons, paying first installment taxes totaled 5730, Shepard said. The second installment period expires April 29.

War, famine, pestilence and death are destroying the wild game of California, according to H. A. Bryan of the State Fish and Game Commission, who pointed out that in the last ten years the attacking army of hunters of wild game has doubled; that the rapid-fire gun has displaced the old and slow flint lock, so that the rapidity of extermination has increased appallingly.

The Elk Grove Union High School was built seven years ago for a maximum of 250 pupils and, at the time it was built, it was estimated this would be reached in fifteen years. The attendance this year is 267, or seventeen more pupils than it was estimated to have in fifteen years. The English, Spanish and typing classes are overcrowded, and it is necessary to employ extra teachers for each of these. There is said to be one-third enough equipment in the typewriting department for the students taking this course. This necessitates three classes. It is now estimated that in eight more years, if the school continues to grow, there will be 450 pupils in attendance.

New badges, bright with gilt and filigree work, will soon decorate the chests of members of the Lindsay police force. The City Council has authorized the purchase. Hitherto the city has furnished tin stars for the force, but since several have donned their uniforms they have discarded the stars as not in keeping.

San Francisco County is to receive $23,627.14 as its share of the $601,202.92 collected by the State from operators of motor busses and trucks in California, according to Controller Ray L. Riley. One-half of the county collections is apportioned by the State back to the counties for use on highways.

Field and forest fires in California during 1929 burned 906,341.25 acres of land and inflicted damage estimated to be $1,294,269, Fred G. Stevenot, director of the state department of natural resources, reported. Stevenot said that 241 persons were arrested in connection with the conflagrations. These figures are smaller than the acreage and money losses of 1928 for during that period 1,266,372 acres were burned at an estimated loss of $2,360,504. Brush lands burned in 1929 totaled 412,924.30 acres, and grass lands 370,031.10 acres. The heaviest monetary loss was checked against improvements to the total of $733,761 and range feed at $360,901. The director said that of the 241 persons arrested 176 were convicted, fifty-seven settlements for losses, four cases were dismissed and four acquitted.

Unless eight California National Guard units rated as "unsatisfactory" in drill attendance during the last year have improved to at least 70 per cent by April, they will be mustered out of service, Adjutant General R. The first issue of California Schools, designated as the official publication of the state department of education, has been sent from the office of Vierling Kersey, state superintendent, to educators throughout the state. It will be issued monthly. The magazine will carry announcements of the state department, furnish information on educational subjects and answer questions pertaining to school problems by means of a question and answer department.

NEW BLOOD NEEDED IN SMALL CIRCUITS

Veterans Predominate, in Many of Minor Leagues.

Baseball's urgent need right now is sandlot material. Several minor circuits are putting in rookie rules and others have increased the number of rookies allowed each club.

The minors never realized how many veterans were hanging on until L. C. McEvoy, vice president of the St. Louis Americans, completed a survey that revealed the average age of players in Class AA and Class A leagues to be thirty and a half years. The average age in the National is twenty-nine and a half, and in the American twenty-eight and a quarter.

McEvoy said that a new manager of a Texas league club submitted to the club president a list of 11 players he desired for 1930. The list showed that every player was about to be shunted to the minors by the majors because they were getting old.

The Tulsa club, 49 per cent of which is owned by the St. Louis Browns, is a good example of youth. The Oilers won three consecutive pennants, and every year the personnel of the club changed in nearly every position.

Marty Berghammer, who led Tulsa to the 1927 and 1928 pennants, and in '27 had one of the best clubs ever to win in the Western, took great pride in his youngsters.

On his first trip to Omaha in 1929 Marty remarked when we went over to the dugout to get his line-up:

"Well, I've got another new team here, another bunch of kids. Don't know how good they really are, but they have shown some promise and I think we'll be up there."

Marty was right. The Oilers were up there and after the flag was just about in the grasp Marty was promoted to the Milwaukee club and Nick Allen sent to Tulsa. Marty developed the rookies and earned the promotion which may lead to the management of the Browns some day.

"Creighton university of Omaha has a rival of 'Stretch' Murphy, of Purdue, generally regarded as the best of all basketball centers performing on collegiate floors both in height and in scoring skill," writes Francis J. Powers.

"The Nebraska skyscraper is Bud Jensen, who towers 6 feet 7 inches. He not only is a clever jumper but a good floor man and a keen performer around the bank boards. Jensen is rather unique in college basketball. He had no high school experience in the game, but made the Creighton team as a sophomore and now is finishing his college career in whirlwind style. Last season he scored 158 points and was one of the dead-eye shots of the Missouri valley."

Delaney to Retire

Jack Delaney, retired light-heavyweight champion of the world, has fought his last fight.

Dr. George W. Hawley, bone specialist, wrote "finis" to Delaney's ring career when he declared that an injury to the right arm which has bothered the former champion for two years threatened to cripple the arm permanently unless Delaney abandons boxing.

Charley O'Leary, who has been the Man Friday for Miller Huggins ever since the latter became manager of the Yankees and who is going back now to work for Bob Shawkey since Huggins' death, doesn't think for a minute the Athletics will run off with the next A. L. pennant. Charley was having lunch the other day with Donie Bush who once took the short-stop job away from him in Detroit. "Take that pitching staff away, and the A's haven't a thing," was the first thing Charley said about the world's champs. "Three or four fellows, aside from the pitchers, played ball last year as they never played before," he added. "Of course, pitching means a lot, but if one of those good ones falters this year, some other club will knock those fellows off. I don't think they'll repeat. See if I'm not right."

Ty Cobb entertains guests at his home in Augusta, Ga., with movies of European scenes taken on a trip abroad.

In his 23 ring encounters, Larry "Big Boy" Rawson, youthful heavy-weight of Dorchester, Mass., has scored 22 kayoes. He is the heaviest hitter, it is said, since Boston produced the famous John L. Sullivan.

An American league outfielder once told us that when Babe Ruth is through as a ball player he might go back to pitching.

TASTY THINGS TO EAT

A nice hot sandwich which may be served as a luncheon or supper dish is prepared thus:

Take any cold meat chopped, well seasoned and mixed with enough thick white sauce to moisten. Butter thin slices of bread cut into finger sizes or into triangles, spread with the hot meat mixture and place in a hot frying pan with a bit of butter. Fry brown on both sides, serve with sliced Bermuda onions or the green ones. If onions are not enjoyed, pickles and olives will be a good accompaniment. Did you ever hear of this?

New Orleans Sundae.—Make a sauce by mixing one-half cupful of New Orleans molasses with two tablespoonfuls of orange juice, a teaspoonful of grated rind and one-fourth teaspoonful of cinnamon; heat hot and pour over vanilla ice cream.

Do you ever get so blasé that popcorn balls have lost their charm?

Molasses Popcorn Balls.—Discard all hard kernels from fresh, tender popped corn. Boil three-fourths of a cupful of molasses with one and one-half cupful of granulated sugar, one-half cupful of water, one teaspoonful of vinegar, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, without stirring until it becomes brittle when dropped into cold water. Remove from the fire, add two teaspoonfuls of vanilla and two tablespoonfuls of butter. Have the corn (about three quarts) in a large pan and pour the sirup slowly over it, mixing and stirring well. Form into balls quickly before it hardens. Wrap in waxed paper. This recipe makes three dozen balls.

Oyster Cocktail.—Chill the oysters and the glasses in which they are to be served. Blend two tablespoonfuls of tomato catsup, one saltspoon each of tabasco sauce and paprika, a teaspoonful of grated horseradish which has been mixed with vinegar, three tablespoonfuls of the oyster liquor. Turn the sauce over the oysters after seasoning well with salt and pepper.

Fish Curry.—Take two pounds of fish cut into small-sized pieces. Stew with two small onions, two tablespoonfuls of butter, a few cloves for ten minutes. Add one tablespoonful of curry powder, one tablespoonful of paste to a pint of the fish broth, mix and put through a sieve. Add a tablespoonful of flour and another teaspoonful of curry if the paste is not obtainable. Add to the fish and stew a half hour. Serve hot.

Shrimp Salad.—There is nothing that takes the place of plump, fresh shrimp as salad dressed with french dressing and served on lettuce. Add a half teaspoonful of worcestershire sauce with plenty of salt.

VISIONS OF SUGAR PLUMS

The plummy cakes, puddings, pies and sweetmeats are not alone enjoyed by the children, but those who are older, grown enjoy an occasional sugar plum.

Apricot Pudding.—Take one-half pound of dried bread crumbs, using a combination of whole wheat, rye, graham or white flour bread. Place one-fourth cupful of butter in a saucepan, stir in the crumbs until all well mixed with the butter. Line a dish with the crumbs, cover with stewed dried apricots with plenty of the sirup used in cooking, cover with more crumbs and steam until well heated through. Chill, unmold and serve with whipped cream dotted with bits of tart jelly.

Date Sweets.—Chop one pound of dates and one-half pound of suet fine, add three cupfuls of bread crumbs, three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, one beaten egg, four tablespoonfuls of flour, one-half cupful of milk, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one cupful or less of pecan meats. Steam three hours and serve with any desired sauce.

Delicious Fruit Cake.—Cream one pound of butter and add gradually two cupfuls of sugar, nine well-beaten eggs, one cupful of strong coffee infusion, three pounds of currants, two pounds of raisins, one pound of citron, four cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of mace, two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon, one-fourth of a nutmeg grated, one-half teaspoonful of soda. Mix as usual, adding some of the flour to the finely cut fruit and steam one to three hours according to the size of the molds, then bake one to two hours.

English Plum Pudding.—Take one pound of finely chopped suet, two pounds of raisins, one pound of currants, one pound of mixed orange and lemon peel, two cupfuls of crumbs, one teaspoonful of mixed spices, two cupfuls of brown sugar and eight eggs. Mix and boil in pudding cloths or bowls five to seven hours, according to the size of the puddings.

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

REGISTRATION OF ALIENS IS PROPOSED IN HOUSE

Registration of every alien in the United States within a time to be fixed by Presidential proclamation is proposed by a bill introduced in the House by Representative James B. Aswell, of Louisiana.

The President would be authorized in time of emergency to require all registered aliens to report at such times and places as he shall fix. A brilliant boy is one who succeeds in school despite his mother's conviction that everything is the teacher's fault.

Is your kitchen convenient? Wouldn't some built-in features lighten the daily household tasks? We can help you plan them.

Keep your heart free from hate; your mind from worry. Live simply; expect little; give much; sing often; pray always. Fill your life with love; scatter sunshine; forget self; think of others. Do as you would be done by. These are the tried links in contentment's golden chain.

Farmer: "Where did you learn to smoke cigarettes?"
Flapper: "In Paris."
Farmer: "It's a good thing you didn't go to Norway. I hear they smoke herrings over there."

He: "Oh, she's not as old as that?"
Ha: "Old! Why that woman remembers the Big Dipper when it was a drinking cup."

"Know who I am?"
"Who?"
"Ever hear of Calvin Coolidge?"
"Yes, but are you..."
"Yep, he's Mrs. Coolidge's husband."

Be there a man with soul so dead, who never to his spouse hath said: "I've got to go to lodge tonight. You might as well turn out the light and trot along to bed."
